

NEW PARTHENIA IN TOWN.

Agnes Burroughs-Arring's Debut at the Union Square.

Arthur Wallack to Go On the Stage—Other Stage News.

Exactly why an ambitious young woman should select the frolicsome but elegant world of May for a matinee debut in the metropolis it would be difficult to say. In the Spring the public fancy does not turn to thoughts of experiment. Parthenia, however good the idea may be, is not an ideal early Summer day, yet Miss Agnes Burroughs-Arring claimed it for a performance of "Ingomar" at the Union Square Theatre. Miss Burroughs-Arring does not profess to be an actual novice. It is said that she has played small parts with Mme. Januschek and the one of A. M. Palmer's companies. Her work in "Ingomar," however, showed that her stage experience has been very slight. Her delivery was that of an amateur of a fairly intelligent amateur—and her gestures were abrupt and peculiar. The young woman has an agreeable voice, but she did not use it to the best advantage. Her singing, intonation, and stage, adopting a somewhat irritating, stage, was somewhat irritating. Miss Burroughs-Arring is coming to look upon, resembling, though not very markedly, her charming sister, Marie Burroughs. She may do well upon the stage when she has acquired experience. In the mean time she should endeavor to secure a position in some reliable company containing clever people, whom she should study. Edwin Frier played the part of Ingomar; Miss Florence Gerald was the Actea; George Macomber, Myron, and John J. Collins Polidor. The audience was not large, and it was made up principally of theatrical people, who are fond of experimental matinees, and are happy in a theatre, no matter how small, where the mercury may have climbed.

It is said that Arthur Wallack, son of the late Lester Wallack, is going on the stage next season, and to appear in "The House on the Hill" in a company managed by Myron Dallas.

Francis Wilson is making frantic efforts to assert his newly acquired rights to "Ernie" but the opera has met with the hands of pirates for so long that they have come to believe that it really belongs to them. As Mr. Wilson is an American citizen he will not have to make a very big fight. He is the legal owner of the work in this country.

E. S. Willard begins an engagement in Chicago next week under his own management. This actor has met with phenomenal success in this country, and it is said that he has cleared very big profits. He has not achieved this success without a hard fight. At first his work was comparatively unnoticed, for he came here unadvertised and without a single bid for notoriety. In Chicago he is a great favorite, and the "sassy" of that city has taken him up.

Talking of Chicago, Daniel Frohman, who has returned from that city, says that the reports of the theatrical business there are somewhat exaggerated. Business is not as good as it generally is in Chicago at this time of year, but it is not as disastrously bad as rumor has made it. Mr. Frohman, who later in the Summer will make up for his deficiencies in the theatre to the theatre to the theatre.

John Drew was in the city yesterday looking as tranquil as ever. A new play is being furnished for the next play by Sidney Howard. It is an original effort of a farcical order.

Lettie Collins, now in Europe, is going to have a brief season in the London concert hall before she returns to this country. She has expressed herself as being exceedingly tired of "Ta-ra-bum-de-ay," and it is to be hoped that the fatigue will continue, if not for her own sake, at least for that of the public.

The Infanta Eulalia will understand and greatly appreciate Ben Stevens' courtship in calling "Panandrum" an infanta. The new play, however, did it in honor of the Infanta, rightly believing that she prefers the Spanish expression to the American word, "hash."

"The Land of the Midnight Sun" is the name of a melodrama that will be presented by Manager Pearson at the Fourteenth Street Theatre in the autumn. The production will be a very gorgeous affair.

George R. Sims and Cecil Raleigh, authors of "The Guardsman" and "The Grey Mare," have written a burlesque on the discovery of "the gallant little America." It is to be produced at the Lyric Theatre, London, after Dame's engagement at that house. May Yohs is to play the part of Columbus.

A season of German comic opera was begun last night at the Terrace Garden, very agreeable resort in Fifty-eighth Street, near Third Avenue. The most interesting part of the entertainment in the theatre was not well sung. The opera was frequently interrupted by one or two of the singers and themselves, and in the end the audience was left with a feeling of disappointment.

SPORTING NEWS AND NOTES.

Only Bona-Fide Collegians in the Mott Haven Games.

Field Games Are All the Rage for Memorial Day.

Little else is talked of in sporting circles just now outside the games for the Mott Haven cup to be contested by the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America on Manhattan Field to-morrow afternoon. They are far and away the most important games of the year, and a victory in the Mott Haven competition is one of the most coveted "blue ribbons" in the eyes of all college athletes. So keen is the rivalry and so covetous of prizes are the different college teams that each and every entry for the games is scrutinized with the most searching care. Only the collegians in good academic repute is permitted to compete, and where there is a shadow of doubt as to his entire eligibility, a protest is raised against his appearance and every effort is made to keep out "ringers." Already there are a number of protests filed with the Executive Committee of the I. A. A. A., and that body will have a merry time indeed to dispose of these matters of dispute and yet satisfy all hands. The games will commence at 2 o'clock.

Next in importance to the Mott Haven games will be the annual competitions of the New Jersey Athletic Club at Bayonne City, Bergen Point, N. J., on Memorial Day. Most of the crack college athletes are willing to compete, and it is almost positive that some of the sharp struggles will be witnessed at Manhattan Field will be repeated at Bergen Point on Tuesday.

Without intending to gloss over a rival's discomfiture, American yachtsmen read to-day with unforgotten pleasure the defeat of Lord Dunraven's new yacht Valkyrie by the Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia over a sixty-mile course in England, yesterday.

The entry list for the Memorial Day games of the Archdiocesan Union of Catholic Clubs at Berkeley Oval exceeds the most sanguine expectations. The forty clubs affiliated are, with few exceptions, fully represented, and the handicap E. C. Carter is wrestling with the unusual problem of portioning out the field to the various clubs. The club which has the most players at the game is the St. Vincent's club, which has a team of 100 players. A telegram from London was received in Chicago to-day to the effect that John Robert, who played for the Chicago Cubs, had been signed by the New York Yankees. Robert, who played for the Chicago Cubs, had been signed by the New York Yankees.

A few changes have been made in the Committee in charge of the N. Y. A. C. nine, Bob Fisher and Parker Ford being recently elected to membership therein to take the places vacated by Arthur J. Moore and one other. Ford, who was a member of the committee, is a former player of the New York Yankees.

A despatch from Minneapolis to-day says that one of the cleverest matches ever seen there was that last night between Billy Maher, the Australian, and Jimmie Griffin of Minneapolis. For a purpose of $1,000 and the Northwestern weight-championship, the event occurred before the "Two City Athletic Club" and was witnessed by about 1,500 people. Maher won in the eighteenth round. He outgeneralized and outboxed Griffin, and won the match by simply jabbing his opponent's face until the latter was unable to see.

R. K. Fox has received this cablegram: "London, May 25, 1933. Dick Rogers, of the New York Yankees, has been signed by the Chicago Cubs. Rogers, who played for the New York Yankees, has been signed by the Chicago Cubs.

The annual field games and ladies' day of the New York A. C. will be held at Travers Island on June 3.

Here is a baseball wall from poor old Louisville, the tall-order in the League: "Manager Barrie is tired of seeing the Louisville sit on the tailboard of the wagon, and he has decided to get the Louisville out of the League. He has decided to get the Louisville out of the League.

A CHINESE LEGEND. A Combination of Figures Which Made a Young Lady Mad.

She was visiting her brother's house and happened to stroll into the library to find a book on the shelves. It was a book on the history of the Chinese, and she was looking at it when she noticed a picture of a young lady. The picture was of a young lady in a long, flowing robe, and she was looking at it when she noticed a picture of a young lady.
